Tickets Go on Sale for Winter Lights at Shelburne Museum
on September 15

SHELBURNE, Vt. (September 9, 2025)—Tickets for Shelburne Museum’s beloved holiday tradition, Winter Lights, go on pre-sale to museum members on September 15 and to the general public on September 22. Returning for its fifth season, the event illuminates the dark days of winter with magic and wonder. Winter Lights opens on November 21 and runs through January 4, 2026, offering a festive experience for visitors of all ages.

Visitors are invited to bundle up and stroll the museum's grounds, where iconic landmarks are transformed into a glittering wonderland. Thousands of colorful lights will adorn favorite stops along the way, including the historic 220-foot steamboat Ticonderoga, its companion 1871 Lighthouse, the twinkling forest of Beach Woods, and the museum's gardens aglow with spritzers and baubles.

New for 2025, Winter Lights will feature reimagined displays throughout the grounds, a new interactive Illumination Station for children outside the Weathervane Café, and a charming model train installation in Diamond Barn. Whimsical weathervanes inspired by the museum's collection will be illuminated on the Round Barn. On Saturday evenings, and on December 26, visitors can enjoy watching local performers animate the Museum's grounds, with the mesmerizing flow artistry of Maiz on Fire Productions and the towering fantastical puppet creatures from Puppet Ruckus on the move throughout the grounds.

About Shelburne Museum

Founded in 1947 by trailblazing folk art collector Electra Havemeyer Webb (1888–1960), Shelburne Museum in Shelburne, Vermont, is the largest art and history museum in northern New England and Vermont’s foremost public resource for visual art and material culture. The Museum’s 45-acre campus is comprised of 39 buildings including the Pizzagalli Center for Art and Education and Webb Gallery featuring important American paintings by Andrew Wyeth, Winslow Homer, Anna Mary Robertson “Grandma” Moses, John Singleton Copley and many more. Construction is underway for the Perry Center for Native American Art, designed in partnership with Indigenous voices and devoted to the stewardship and exhibition of the Native American art in the museum’s care, scheduled to open in 2027.
